

The Clean Air (W1) programme is led by NERC and the Met Office, with Innovate UK, EPSRC, ESRC, MRC,

Joining Forces to Improve Air Quality and Health

Sector Involvement

Communication Between Disciplines & the Public

Suzanne Bartington (Institute of Applied Health Research)

The Clean Air (W1) programme is led by NERC and the Met Office, with Innovate UK, EPSRC, ESRC, MRC, NPL & Defra as delivery partners.

Problems and challenges

- What do you see as the current problems in your sector and what future research/innovation is required to address them?
- Engagement public communication and dialogue
- Barriers to advancing research and innovation
  - Structural and technical data sharing and research governance
  - Funding mechanisms academic support and application timescales
  - Career progression support for early and mid-career researchers
  - Logistical constraints balancing teaching, administrative research commitments

Next steps

Q: What is the next significant development that you expect to make a difference in your work in this area?

- Public engagement and involvement setting the agenda
- Knowledge transfer in local Government applying the evidence base
- Linked research implementation evaluation pathways
- Shared working and collaboration academic and public policy sectors

www.metoffice.gov.uk © Crown Copyright 2017, Met Office

The Clean Air (W1) programme is led by NERC and the Met Office, with Innovate UK, EPSRC, ESRC, MRC, NPL & Defra as delivery partners

Collaborative working

Q: Which organisation or sector would you most like to collaborate with and why?

- Health professional community
  - Health practitioners and professionals (primary/secondary/tertiary care)
  - Accreditation and training providers (e.g. HE sector, Royal Colleges, FPH)
  - Emergency services recognition, confidence and trust
  - Local authorities public health teams, transport, communities